Sure Shot Shinners.

Officer John Shinners shot and slightly wounded a burglar named Harry Miller about 5 o'clock yesterday morning as he was leaving a house at 6 West Sixteenth street, with a lot of stolen property in his possession. Miller and a man named August Strickler, alias Charles Hoffman, robbed the home of Addie Lewis and were leaving the premises with three suits of clothes, two gold watches, a dozen silver spoons and $14 in money in their possession when Officer Shinners placed them under arrest. Miller started to run and Shinners shot him in the calf of the leg.

The clothing which the two robbers stole belonged to William Kennedy, Charles M. Lewis and G. Dolson, who were occupying rooms in the lodging house. The occupants of the house heard the robbers leaving the premises and emitted a series of ing the premises and emitted a series of yells that attracted the attention of Officer Shinners a block away. Miller and Strickler live at 255 Washington street and have police court records.

Officers searched Strickler's home yesterday morning and recovered a mandolin that was stolen from Miss Nellie Martin, of 256 Penn street, the night of July 30. Miss Martin identified the instrument at police headquarters and two charges of burglary and larceny will be placed against the two men. The police suspect that Miller and Strickler have been implicated in a number of other robberies on the West side. Miller says that he came here from Pecoz, N. M., less than a week ago.

Daring Theft of a Ring.

A thief went into C. E. Russell's jewelry store at 1028 Main street, yesterday afterstore at 102 Main street, yesterday afternoon, and asked to see some finger rings.
Ed Reinholdt, a clerk in the establishment, set out a tray containing a lot of rings.
The negro slipped a $ ring into his pocket and darted out the front door. Reinholdt pursued him down Main street to Tenth street and vest on Tenth to Baltimore.
Officer Shearer also joined in the chase and followed the negro until he was lost to view in an aliey between Baltimore and Wyandotte streets and Ninth and Tenth streets.

Charles Brodie, who, by the way, is not related to Steve Brodie of Brooklyn bridge fame, took a dive in the Missouri river, near the foot of Main street. The leap that Charles Brodie made when he divested himself of his clothing wasn't from as high a point as the one that made Stephen famous, but it cost him $1 to take it. He was arrested by Special Officer McMichaels for bathing in the river inside the city limits, and in the police court yesterday morning was fined for the offense. This is the first fine imposed on a bather in the police court this summer.

He also informed the police that a young man named John Jacobs was implicated in the robberies with him, and he was also taken into custody. Nothing but tools were stolen.

Robinson confessed to robbing the following places: Gorman's cabinet works, 2436 Grand avenue; Lyle's planing mill, Twenty-fifth and Grand avenue; Crawford's blacksmith shop, 2429 Grand avenue; Lyle Bros.' office at rock crushing plant at Twenty-eighth and Grand. The tools stolen from all of these places were sold to A. J. Henning, of 1525 Grand avenue, and Charles Dutch, of 1527 Grand avenue. The tools were found in these places and were returned to the owners. The police then arrested Henning and Dutch on state warrants charging them with buying stolen property. claimant. Detective Arthur Sparks lugged the wearing apparel into police headquarters at an early hour yesterday morning and dropped it behind Lieutenant Weber's desk with the remark:
"I got this, but the woman got away."
Then Sparks explained that he was walking down Wyandotte street, near Eighth street, when three negro women accosted him and engaged him in conversation. They thought they had caught an unsophisticated farmer and one of them proceeded to try to relieve him of his money, when he placed her under arrest and started with her for police headquarters.

and started with her for police headquarters.

The woman jerked away from Sparks and he made a grab for her, catching her by the skirt of her dress. She kicked and screamed and a minute later she was outside of her skirts. Then she started to run away a second time and Sparks made a second grab for her. This time he got hold of her shirt waist and tore it from her person. Another scuille ensued in which the three women took a hand, two of them relieving Sparks of the shirt waist he had torn from their companion. The trio were too much for the detective and a minute later Sparks started for police headquarters with an armful of clothing as the owner of the apparel disappeared in the darkness of an alley.

Patted a Vicious Horse.

Ralph Keeler, an 11-year-old boy living at 2416 Locust street, walked up to a horse that was tied to a hitching rack at Twenty-fifth and Prospect avenue, yesterday morning and playfully patted the animal on the head. The horse snapped at the boy in a vicious manner, and he tried to pat the beast on the head again. Keeler's middle finger of the left hand was caught between the animal's teeth and was bitten off near the end. He was attended by Dr. Longan and sent to his home.

SUES HER EX-HUSBAND

MRS. DAVIS ASKS $10,000 DAMAGES FOR SLANDER.

he Alleges That Rufus H. Davis From Whom She Was Divorced, Charged Her With Adultery -Two Snits Pending.

Blanche Davis sued her ex-husband yes erday for $10,000 damages for slander. He is Rufus H. Davis, the saloonkeeper whom she sued a few weeks ago for breach of promise. They were divorced several years ago and she claims that he promised to remarry her and failed to keep his promise. A newspaper reporter who interviewed Mr. Davis and asked him what grounds he secured a divorce upon, was told by him that the grounds were adultery. She alleges that the grounds were simply in-dignities. The first divorce petition filed in the divorce suit alleges adultery, but finding it impossible to prove this, the pe-tition was amended, alleging only indigni-ties such as shorter to much as the peles such as showing too much attention to other men talking too freely to strangers of the opposite sex and similar charges, and the divorce was granted on the amended petition. She now has suits aggregating $35,000 pending against her former husband.

EIGHTH STREET VIADUCT.

Plans Are Finished and Will Be Submitted to Park Board at Its Next Meeting.

The completion of the much talked of Eighth street viaduct is in sight. President Walton Holmes, of the Metropolitah Street Railway Company, yesterday announced the finishing of the plans, and they will be submitted to the park board at its next meeting. As the park board has already given notice that it has no jurisdiction in the matter the plans may be taken directly before the city council.

"As soon as the plans are approved," said Mr. Holmes yesterday, "we will push the work of construction as rapidly as possible. We do not intend to block traffic nor tear up the streets any more than we can help. You may safely say that the building of the Eighth street viaduct will revolutionize street railway traffic in Kansas City. People will find greater convenience in getting to and from the Union depot. There will not be the delay in down town traffic that is now necessitated by the care dent Walton Holmes, of the Metropolitan traffic that is now necessitated by the care that must be exercised in running trains up and down the hills between Grand avenue and Wyandotte street, on Ninth

Plans for the viaduct contemplate asphalt flooring and solid masonry abutments, which will have a tendency toward deadening sound. Mr. Holmes said he hoped to have cars running over the new viaduct by early next year.

What will become of the historic "incline." from Bluff and Ninth streets to the Union depot, is still a question. Metropolitan railway officials say they have not decided what disposition will be made of it. They say they will be glad to discontinue its use. It has always been an inconvenience and fruitful source of damage suits.

Benton Boulevard Paving.

At the meeting of the park board bids were opened for the paving of Benton boul-evard, Twenty-fourth to Thirty-first, but the contract was not awarded owing to a circumstance which the members deemed worthy of investigation. The lowest bidder was a member of the firm of Adam Armstrong, the contractor who falled to carry out his contract for paving this section of the boulevard, and the board before awarding it anew wants to ascertain whether or not it is obliged to let it under these circumstances.

READY AUGUST 1, 1900.

Date for the Completion of the New Federal Building-Hadsome Park on the East Side.

It is the opinion of F. C. Gunn, superintendent of the new government building, that it will be ready for occupancy by July 1, 1900. This date, however, is one month earlier than that set by the supervising architect, who says, as told in The Journal, that the building will be ready August 1, 1900. Mr. Gunn showed a reporter for The Journal over the building yesterday afternoon, and work in all departments appeared to be progressing rapidly. The heating and ventilating equipment have been installed and acording to Mr. Gunn it is one of the finest plants in the country. It represents an outlay of $46,000. Four down draft boilers are in

ASSESSOR'S NEW PLAN.

Divides City Into Five Districts-Ten Men Will Fix the New Values of Kansas City Property.

A plan of reassessing the real estate of Kansas City was presented to the county court yesterday by George Holmes, the newly appointed assessor. He asked that the city be divided into five districts and that two special deputies at $100 a month each be appointed to fix the values in each district. The county court approved of his plan, believing that the result would be more thorough and quicker work. Owing to the delay caused by the death of Charles J. Bower, the late assessor, but little time remains in which to make the reassess-
